

Help the Huble children bring the vegetables from the garden to the root cellar!

A root cellar is a structure built underground, or partially underground, that is used to store vegetables, fruits, and other foods. They keep food from freezing during the winter and from spoiling during the summer.

